

ACROPOLIS MUSEUM

The Acropolis Museum welcomes spring

The Acropolis Museum welcomes visitors during the summer season, with extended opening hours (Monday 8am-4pm, Tuesday to Sunday 8am-8pm, Friday 8am-10pm), beautiful night views of the Acropolis from the restaurant terrace every Friday and every Saturday until midnight, and a new cycle of presentations in the Museum's archaeological excavation.

'Walking in the ancient neighborhood of the Acropolis Museum'

Visitors, guided by the Museum's archaeologists, are given the opportunity to wander through the archaeological excavation which stretches underneath the Museum, like a giant exhibit. They will be able to walk on the ancient neighborhood's streets, take a closer look at the houses with their courtyards and wells, enter the heart of the impressive mansions with the private baths, examine the workshops with the water reservoirs, take a magical stroll through time and the daily life of the people who lived in the shadow of the Acropolis' rock for over 4,500 years.

English: every Saturday & Monday, at 11 a.m.

Greek: every Saturday & Monday, at 1 p.m.

Duration: 45 minutes

Participation: For registration, please refer to the Information Desk at the Museum entrance on the same day. Limited to 20 visitors per session. First-in first-served. Only the general admission fee to the Museum is required (10 euro).

The adult gallery talks 'Afternoons in the Acropolis Museum' and 'Saturday in the Museum with 20+1 masterpieces' continue as usual. More information:
