

Full Moon musical evenings at the Acropolis Museum

The Acropolis Museum will celebrate this year's August Full Moon with two special musical evenings:

Thursday 18 August 2016:

On Thursday 18 August 2016, at 9 p.m., the Museum will welcome in its entrance courtyard the well-known Swingin' Cats, with Greek and overseas oldies and dance. The gleeful band that was loved as "Penny & The Swingin' Cats" will take us on a journey to innocent times with an incredible stage presence.

On this day, the Museum will remain open from 8 a.m. to 12 midnight (free entry from 8 p.m. onwards) and visitors will be able to enjoy the permanent exhibition areas but also the temporary exhibition 'Dodona. The oracle of sounds'.

The restaurant of the second floor will be open during the same hours (telephone reservations on +30 210 9000915) and also the ground floor café. From 8 p.m. onwards, other than the special dishes based on traditional recipes, the restaurant will present a famous jazz music ensemble. Musicians include Spyros Rontogiannis on saxophone, George Tsiropoulos on piano and Christos Koromilas on contrabass.

Friday 19 August 2016:

On Friday 19 August 2016, the Museum will remain open as usual as follows: the exhibition areas will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and the restaurant of the second floor until 12 midnight. From 8 p.m. onwards entry to the Museum will be free and visitors will be able to enjoy the permanent exhibition areas but also the temporary exhibition 'Dodona. The oracle of sounds'.

From 8 p.m. onwards, visitors will be able to enjoy dinner or drinks at the restaurant veranda listening to live harp music by Thodoris Matoulas. At the same time, three musicians will perform jazz melodies at the interior area of the restaurant (Spyros Rontogiannis on saxophone, George Tsiropoulos on piano and Christos Koromilas on contrabass). Telephone reservations for the restaurant interior area on +30 210 9000915.
